ABSTRACT

This report begins by explaining the purpose of and legal basis for the state depository library program as part of the national program operated by the U.S. Government Printing Office. Montana's selective federal depository libraries are then listed together with the regional depository library and several depository vacancies. Goals for both selective depositories and the regional depository are presented, and the roles of the two types of depositories and the Montana State Library are detailed. Responsibility areas are described, including collection development, reference services, education/outreach, interlibrary loan, and financial support. Performance is discussed in terms of evaluation and annual reports. Appended materials include a Library Directory and Profiles; a Union List of Federal Document Reference Tools in Montana Depository Libraries; Instructions to Depository Libraries for Submitting Disposal Requests for Discarding of U.S. Government Depository Publications; an Agreement Document form; and a Union List of Item Selections by Montana Depository Libraries. MONTANA STATE PLAN
FOR GOVERNMENT DOCUMENT DEPOSITORY LIBRARY PROGRAM

I. Purpose of Program and Legal Basis

The Depository Library System in Montana is part of a national Depository Library Program, established by Title 44, U.S. Code and operated by the U. S. Government Printing Office. The state plan concept for federal depository service was initiated by the Depository Library Council to the Public Printer at its Spring 1981 meeting. The Council responding to a survey outlining problems in the regional depository library system, adopted the following resolution in the Fall of 1981:

"In order to bolster the regional depository libraries capabilities to serve their missions and in order to assure that Federal documents are available throughout the United States on an equal and expeditious basis, the Depository Library Council recommends that the Public Printer investigate the feasibility of requiring each state to prepare a plan to coordinate the Federal documents depository program within that state. The plan should be developed through consultation with all designated Federal depository libraries within the state and should address all depository responsibilities outlined in the Instructions to Depository Libraries as well as the concerns expressed through the Regional Depository Library Survey presented to the Depository Library Council at the first afternoon session of the Spring 1981 meeting."

II. Montana Federal Depository Libraries

Libraries in each congressional district are designated to receive federal publications available through the depository system and to make available without charge to the public which they serve. The libraries are listed by name, location, type of depository designation, date depository was established, congressional district number and depository library number.

III. Goals

A. Selective Depositories are to:

1. Increase the awareness of the depository library program and of government documents.
2. Assure that government publications are accessible to all residents of Montana.
3. Improve communications among documents librarians and with other librarians.
4. Reduce costs through coordinated collection development and shared resources.
5. Expand the program for staff development and continuing education.

B. Regional Library:

1. In addition to the above, strengthen its leadership role.
2. Suggest ways depository libraries and librarians can assist and support the Regional in meeting its special responsibilities.
3. Coordinate statewide collection development.

IV. Roles

A. Role of the Regional Depository:

In addition to fulfilling the requirements of selective depositories, the regional library must do the following:

1. Receive and retain at least one copy of all federal publications made available under the Depository Library Program either in paper or microform copy (except those authorized by the Superintendent of Documents to be discarded by regionals. See Administrative Notes, vol. 10, no. 13, June 30, 1989). The University of Montana Library was a selective depository until January 1965 when it became the regional and thus a full depository. The University of Montana Library has a collection of U.S Non-depository publications on microprint (Readex) from January 1960 to November 1980. A more complete depository retrospective collection is being developed as funds are available and as items needed by the Regional are given up by the selective depositories in the state.
2. Make every effort to acquire complete series of all major agencies and subagencies and retrospective series of regional commissions and field offices which meet local demand.
3. Assist selective depositories in the disposal of unwanted documents (see Appendix C for disposal instructions).
4. Authorize the transfer of depository materials between selective depository libraries and other institutions.
5. Provide reference assistance and interlibrary loan, photoduplication, and microfiche duplication to selective depositories and other libraries.
6. Provide technical assistance to selective depository libraries as needed (including providing missing shipping lists).
7. Provide for or facilitate the continuing education and training of staff in selective depository libraries.

8. Take a leadership role in facilitating communication with and among the depository libraries, and other libraries within the state. Assist GPO Inspectors on inspections of depository libraries within the state and provide follow-up services to the selective depositories as necessary.
9. Periodically visit selective depository libraries.
10. Review and make recommendations for new depository libraries.
11. Provide orientation in procedures, policies and directives of the Depository Library Program to new selective depositories.
12. Represent the concerns of depository libraries in the state to the GPO and the other federal agencies as appropriate.
13. Serve as a permanent member of the Montana Council of Federal Depository Libraries, providing leadership to the depository library network.
14. Appoint a Regional Depository librarian with a Master's Degree in Library Science and previous experience with government publications.
15. Serve as a resource for commercial reference tools specializing in government information.
16. Budget to adequately support the role as Regional.

B. Role of the Selective Depository Library:

1. The Selective Depository Libraries in the State of Montana are to comply with the responsibilities set forth in the guidelines for the depository library system. In addition, the Selective Depository Libraries provide free access to government publications in the particular areas they serve. In cooperation with the Regional Depository Library and other Selective Depository Libraries in the state, they develop, implement, and coordinate efforts to provide information to the State of Montana as a whole.

2. The Selective Depository Libraries provide educational, promotional, and public service functions to the particular areas they serve and cooperate in resource sharing and loan programs with the Regional Depository and other Selective Depository Libraries in the State of Montana.

Responsibilities of the Selective Depository Library:

1. Provide free access to Federal Government publications which meet the information needs of the selective library clientele through an organized Federal publications collection.
2. Develop and maintain a collection of bibliographic tools from government and commercial sources.
3. Employ established discard procedures, discard superseded materials and weed collection regularly.
4. Evaluate requests regularly to identify subject areas used by patrons.
5. Encourage the use of the selective documents collection by information programs and news releases designed to increase the public's knowledge of documents and services available.
6. Cooperate with the interlibrary loan program in the state.
7. Evaluate item selections annually for more efficient use of government publications.
8. Represent their parent institution on the Montana Council of Federal Depository Libraries.

C. The Montana State Library

The Montana State Library serves as a backup to the Regional Depository in meeting the research needs of State Government, public libraries and other libraries in the State. The Federal documents collection has been developed and maintained with this object in mind.

V. Responsibility areas

A. Collection Development:

Each depository library in Montana shall have a written collection development policy for U.S. government publications. This policy may be a component of the library's overall collection development policy. It is expected that each library will develop its collections to meet the needs of its primary clientele, and rely on resource sharing for little-used materials which fall outside the library's collecting interests. Cooperative collection development is not only desirable but must be a reality if a well-balanced collection of government publications and their access tools are to be available within the state.

It is recommended that each depository library's collection development policy address the following points, either explicitly or as part of the host library's overall collection development policy:

1. Describe the library's constituency, including those to be served by the depository.
2. Identify the position in the library with the authority for developing and revising the collection development policy.
3. Describes with whom the authority to select and/or purchase U.S. government publications resides.
4. Define selection criteria with reference to subjects, currency, geographic and chronological coverage, and formats collected consistent with the parent agency's overall collection development policies.
5. Describe the methods for selecting both depository and other government publications.
6. Define collection goals for the various subject interests.
7. Define collecting interests in privately published reference tools which improve access to government information (indexes, bibliographies, directories, etc.).
8. Define any interests in collecting government publications retrospectively (via CIS, Readex, etc.).

9. List common reviewing sources for government publications.

10. Provide for special concerns such as multiple copies, binding, publication formats, replacement of lost materials, and preservation.

11. Include a statement on gift policies.

12. Describe available avenues for cooperative collection development, and resource sharing (interlibrary loan, telefacsimile, fiche duplication, referral, etc.).

13. Define parameters for weeding and discarding library materials.

14. Include a statement on intellectual freedom.

B. Reference Services:

1. Depository collections should be open for use during the same hours as other segments of the library's collection.

2. Depository items should circulate under a policy consistent with the circulation policies of other types of library materials.

3. Reference assistance for depository items should be available on an equal basis with reference services provided for other library materials.

4. The library's staff should be knowledgeable of other depository libraries' holdings in order to provide proper referral.

5. Each library is to maintain profiles of other federal depository libraries in the state, listing the scope of collections, hours, etc.

C. Education/Outreach:

1. Continuing Education:

Organize training opportunities for all library staff involved with documents (professional and para-professional, depository and non-depository) including training in public services (public awareness techniques, reference skills, search techniques, interview strategies, interlibrary loan, circulation policies), and technical services (collection development, maintenance, weeding) to be accomplished through production of training materials including guides and tapes, workshops, training sessions, seminars, etc.

2. Public Relations/Marketing

Promotion of documents use to libraries and the general public to increase awareness of the scope and depth of information contained in documents, of bibliographic location tools, and of item availability, undertaken with a goal of increasing the use of documents and depository libraries through:

- a. Promotional materials -- catalogs, lists, brochures, subject bibliographies, slide-tape programs for civic and business groups, etc.
- b. Meetings -- regional and statewide, including subject area workshops (census, business, legislative materials, etc.) for librarians and for potential users.
- c. Speaker's Bureau -- a list of consultants and locally available resource persons.
- d. Newsletter -- the Regional Library shall provide a periodic newsletter to selective depositories.

D. Interlibrary Loan:

The majority of interlibrary loan requests for documents are handled through the current state interlibrary loan network. In some cases, calling a depository library in advance for holdings for an incomplete citation including a SuDoc number will facilitate the ILL process. Occasionally, when time is a factor, ILL can be arranged informally by direct contact with the regional depository.

E. Financial Support:

In order for the depository library to attain the goals and objectives listed in the Montana state plan, its financial needs should be met by the parent institution. Each depository library should have adequate staffing, housing, equipment and budget.

According to the U.S. Depository Library Inspection Report Form, there should be clerical support of at least one hour per week for every 1% of the library's selected items. Every Montana Depository Library needs to provide trained staff members for interlibrary loan, reference, and referral services. Each depository library should also allow money for staff travel to training sessions. These sessions are necessary for staff to receive adequate training for processing government publications and also for providing reference services to these publications. Responsibility of sponsoring and arranging the training sessions should be shared by all the depository libraries in Montana. By doing this, it would be possible to consolidate the financial resources, organizational time, and staff expertise available in all these libraries to produce higher quality and more comprehensive training.

Each depository library should have adequate space and equipment to house all formats of the documents and should provide sufficient photocopiers, microform reader/printers, and fiche-to-fiche duplicators. Supplies for processing the depository items need to be funded by each individual depository also.

VI. Performance:

A. Evaluation

The Montana Council of Federal Depository Libraries is established as a mechanism for regular communication and coordination among the Montana depository libraries.

1. This Council meets annually, to coordinate and monitor the state plan, to make recommendations for revisions as necessary, to discuss government information, and to exchange information.
2. This Council coordinates the development of a union list of Montana depository libraries' item selections.
3. This Council takes steps to identify serious gaps in the retrospective document holdings in the state and cooperatively attempt to fill such gaps.
4. This Council is chaired by the Regional Depository Librarian.

B. Annual reports:

To chart each depository libraries progress, it is recommended that an annual report be prepared. The report covers July 1 through June 30th and arranged by the areas of the GPO Inspector's report, and under each area the following are to be listed:

ACCOMPLISHMENTS: Those accomplishments which have been achieved during the past year.

GOALS: Those areas identified by the Inspector as still needing attention and the plans to correct those areas during the coming year.

If an Annual Report is already being submitted by the depository library to its administration, a copy could then be given to the Regional Librarian. If an Annual Report of the nature described is not being compiled, then the library would begin doing so. The report is due to the Regional Librarian by September 1st.

INSTRUCTIONS TO DEPOSITORY LIBRARIES FOR SUBMITTING DISPOSAL REQUESTS FOR DISCARDING OF U.S. GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY PUBLICATIONS

Regionals "may permit" depository libraries to dispose of depository publications which the library has retained over five years and the Regional is to add those publications which are not presently available in its collection. It should be remembered that no library is required to discard any depository library materials, unless the Superintendent of Documents directs such discarding.

GUIDELINES FOR DISPOSAL OF U.S. GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY PUBLICATIONS

1. Any government publication not received on deposit from the Superintendent of Documents may be included on the list but each must be clearly identified as non-depository publications and the following procedures do not apply.
2. Any publication which can be discarded without the Regional's approval should not be included on the list.

DISPOSAL PROCEDURES

1. Materials five years old or materials which have been replaced by a micro format may be discarded.
2. A list of the publications for disposal is to be typed and arrangement is to be by the SuDocs number.
3. Each list should contain the name of the library, the date of the list, such as 90-1, or March 1990 #1, and the page number.
4. For each publication, the following information is necessary:
  - a. The SuDocs classification number issued by the GPO.
  - b. For non-serial publications: the title and the date of publication.
  - c. For serial publications: the series title, holdings including volumes, number, years, dates, etc. (whatever is necessary to uniquely identify each publication).

d. Microfiche and paper publications should be listed on separate lists or at least on separate pages of the same list. In no case should the two formats be listed in one alphabetical sequence on the same list.

e. Lists should be approximately twenty pages.

f. Do not send more than one list to the Regional at a time. Lists may be sent to the selective depositories at the same time.

g. The list will be returned indicating any publication which the Regional needs. The Regional's list must be processed before any selective depository's list can be processed.

h. It is strongly recommended that selective depository libraries use the "Needs and Offers" list published by the GPO to notify document librarians nationwide of the availability of long runs of series or major sets.

i. After all reasonable efforts have been made to transfer the publications to other libraries, the depository library is authorized to dispose of the remaining publications by means of any of the following:

1. Offer to private citizens.
2. Donate as paper to recyclers or paper drives
3. Sell, either as secondhand books or waste paper. All depository publications remain the property of the U.S. government. Therefore, the proceeds from the sale of any items, must be sent to the Superintendent of Documents with a letter of explanation.
4. Discard.

j. It should be remembered that no library is required to discard any depository library materials, unless the Superintendent of Documents directs such discarding.
